Under Staffed?.....

If you are responsible to manage the office, take a look at how you can collect more of your AR without increasing your payroll costs. "Outsourcing" certain medical office billing tasks makes economic sense to any size office.

It is important today for any medical practice to be fairly reimbursed. It has also become increasingly more difficult and costly for busy medical office staff to perform all the required tasks to secure insurance and patient payments.

By "outsourcing" any of the following tasks, you have a means of improving your practice cash flow:

- Providing electronic claim services
- Posting of all insurance payments via EOBs or electronic EOBs
- An aggressive aging of accounts and following up with insurance payers
- Sending monthly patient statements (including printing, folding, stuffing, mailing, postage, and providing return envelopes)

- Instituting a flexible patient collection process built to suite your practice
- Providing you with quarterly practice financial reports detailing charges, payments, adjustments, accounts receivables, and profitability analysis of each insurance payer.

Quadex has been providing billing task functions for over 15 years in the Hudson Valley area. We can ease some of your office burden work.

In addition to providing one of the above tasks, we can also provide a comprehensive billing system with real-time software.

So think if one of the above options might work for you. Call us for a free trial.

Stratus Users

If you are currently using Stratus (Per-se, NDC), be aware that this platform will be discontinued December 31, 2007. You will have to migrate to Phoenix or secure another electronic service.
